SECTION I--THE ANATOMY OF A PHENOMENON: ME AND BFT--What happens when a physiologist learns to power a model train with her brain waves.

SECTION II--SKIN TALK: A STRANGE MIRROR OF THE MIND--How the electrical language of the skin can reflect moods and expose secret personality.

SECTION III--TEACHING MUSCLES

TO WORK FOR THE MIND--Muscle control through biofeedback can lead to startling changes in consciousness and awareness, and reveal human will in the control of a single nerve cell. SECTION IV--HEARTBEAT AND BLOOD PRESSURE: ACTS OF WILL--The mind can relieve illnesses as well as create them; new techniques offer hope for hypertensive patients.

SECTION V--THE CONSTANT, CRYPTIC WAVES FROM THE BRAIN--Alpha

waves can be an aid to meditation or treatment for neurosis; besides, they feel good.

Foreign policy and football games are easy to figure out afterward, but users of hind-forget equally likely possibili-

Index: Volume IX,

June 1975 - May 1976

THIS INDEX. . . consists of two parts; an Editorial Index and a Book Review Index, both of which reference the entire twelve-issue volume noted on the Index cover. Both Indexes are single continuous listings of titles, authors and topics arranged in alphabetical order. Each index entry gives the item title, its author(s), the magazine department in which the item appeared, the month and year of issue and the page number on which the item begins. When more than one item appears under a single index entry, the items are arranged in inverse chronological order, most recent item first. In particular, the

EDITORIAL INDEX references all main articles, regular columns and features including Newslines and Letters. Letters pertaining to a particular item are listed under the item's title entry. Author replies are listed under the author's name. And the BOOK REVIEW INDEX references all Book Reviews, Review Briefs and articles that dealt primarily with books and literature. Entries are by book title, book author, book reviewer and subject insofar as could be determined from the review itself. Books are also classified as to Autobiographies, Biographies, Children's Literature, Fiction and Science Fiction. Letters pertaining to book reviews are listed under the book title entry.

Index: Volume X,

June 1976 — May 1977

THIS INDEX. . . consists of two parts; an Editorial Index and a Book Review Index, both of which reference the entire twelve-issue volume noted on the Index cover. Both Indexes are single continuous listings of titles, authors and topics arranged in alphabetical order. Each index entry gives the item title, its author(s), the magazine department in which the item appeared, the month and year of issue and the page number on which the item begins. When more than one item appears under a single index entry, the items are arranged in inverse chronological order, most recent item first. In particular, the

EDITORIAL INDEX references all main articles, regular columns and features including Newsline and Letters. Letters pertaining to a particular item are listed under the item's title entry. Author replies are listed under the author's name. And the BOOK REVIEW INDEX references all Book Reviews, Review Briefs and articles that dealt primarily with books and literature. Entries are by book title, book author, book reviewer and subject insofar as could be determined from the review itself. Books are also classified as to Autobiographies, Biographies, Children's Literature, Fiction and Science Fiction. Letters pertaining to book reviews are listed under the book title entry.
